BIG CUT IN INCOME TAX BUT NO SOLDIER BONUS IS MELLON PROGRAM FOR NEXT CONGRESS

WASHINGTON.—Federal tax revision under a program applying reductions to the entire range of personal incomes and estimates to cut the nation's tax bill next year by $323,000,000, will be recommended to congress by Secretary Mellon.

Outlining his proposed program in a letter to Acting Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, published Monday, Secretary Mellon declared that, contingent on the non-passage of a soldiers' bonus bill, there should be for this year and for the next four or five years a revenue surplus above ordinary budget expenditures, including the fixed debt charges, of something more than $300,000,000. This, he said, gives a reasonable margin for tax revision reduction.

A soldiers' bonus measure, the secretary asserted, not only would postpone tax reduction "for many years to come, but would mean an increase rather than a decrease in taxes. The treasury, he said, adheres to the "theory that the country would prefer a substantial reduction of taxation to the increased taxes that would necessarily follow from a soldiers' bonus."

PRESIDENT BEGINS DRAFTING OF FIRST NOTE TO CONGRESS

Coolidge to Devote Next Three Weeks to Work Upon His Message

GROUND-WORK LAID IN THREE MONTHS OF CONFERENCES

Farms, Taxes and Railroads to be Three Big Subjects

WASHINGTON. — President Coolidge began actual work Monday on his message to congress and upon the results of his efforts even his closest friends acknowledge will depend to a considerable degree, his political future.

Mr Coolidge is known to realize as much as do his friends the importance of his first message and his first pronouncement of policies, and for that reason he expects to devote himself assiduously to work upon the document during the three weeks that intervene before the convening of congress. By agreement with his secretary, C. Bascom Slemp, the executive will limit his daily appointments to only those of necessity and let nothing interfere with his work upon the message.

The ground-work necessary to the drafting of the message already has been done. Six days a week for three months Mr Coolidge has been conferring with officials, private citizens and experts in international affairs, giving him a lot of information on a variety of subjects.

To Discuss Three Big Issues

With this information at hand he sat down Monday to write the message. The principal subjects to be treated in the message have become fairly well known to those who have followed the course of the president's mind and the nature of his conferences during the past three months. They embrace agricultural relief, taxation, transportation, merchant marine, government expenditures, immigration, reclamation, and international affairs, including the world court and the recently negotiated conventions with Mexico.

Three subjects would seem at this time likely to receive major consideration. They are agricultural relief, taxation and transportation. With respect to assistance to the farmers, the chief executive is expected by some to urge legislation to promote cooperative marketing and probably ask creation of an agency, or authorization for an existing agency to sell American farm products abroad.

May Modify Mellon Tax Plan

The executive's tax proposals most probably will follow the outline of those announced by the treasury department, with such minor modifications as republican leaders believe are advisable.

It is reasonable to expect that he will not give any measure of approval to the proposal that congress by its own action reduce freight rates on farm products inasmuch as the interstate commerce commission has instituted an inquiry to determine whether such rates can be lowered.

The present immigration law expires next June and Mr. Coolidge has let it be known that he will look to congress to maintain at least the present restrictions.

The greatest interest will be in the manner in which Mr. Coolidge treats the proposal made by President Harding of the last senate that the United States accept membership in the permanent court of international justice.

CALIFORNIA ALIEN LAND LAW UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON. — The alien land laws of California and Washington, prohibiting aliens ineligible to citizenship from owning or leasing land, were declared valid and constitutional Monday by the supreme court.

Justice Butler asserted it was clearly within the power of a state to prohibit aliens who had not declared their purpose to become citizens, or who cannot become citizens, from owning land. He held also that such legislation was not repugnant to the agreement made by this government with Japan.

MILEY HELD UNDER BAIL AS ALIMONY CASE IS PUT OVER

Judge Higbee Adjourns Action Brought by Former Wife for Two Weeks

FRANK KLEINERTZ' CASE TO BE HEARD ON TUESDAY

Seventeen Women on November List of Circuit Court Jurors

FRANK MILEY was held under $1,000 bail by Judge Higbee Monday morning, at the opening of the November term of court, until the court can straighten out the tangle resulting from charges by Miley's wife that he is in arrears in his alimony payments. The case was adjourned for two weeks.

In that time, Miley was informed to get copies of postal money orders he said he obtained in Wabash, Ind., and also affidavits to support his claims that he has paid his wife about $500 since they were divorced in April. Mrs. Miley charges that she has received only about $130.

Says He Paid Part of Alimony

Miley left La Crosse a year after the divorce, going first to Beaver Dam, Wis., then Carthage, Mo., and then to Wabash, Ind., working in shoe factories at those places. Mrs. Miley now is a forewoman in a shoe factory in Milwaukee. Miley also claims to have paid between $20 and $30 of the $70 back alimony, ordered by the court at the time the divorce was granted. Miley returned to La Crosse a week or two ago. Miley says he and his former wife agreed on a payment of $10 a week, which was less than the court order. Mrs. Miley said that she did not agree to him paying only $10 a week, that he could pay that and make up the rest when he had the money.

The first case called Monday afternoon was that of the state against Frank Kleinertz, that of transportation and unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor. The jury was selected Monday after 2 p. m. and the case was adjourned until Tuesday morning.

Jurors for November Term

There are 17 women and 19 men on the list of jurors for the November term. The jurors are: La Crosse—Ida Bartz, Gertrude Beaser, J. D. Becker, R. D. Fentress, Barbara Gantert, Anna Hilbert, E. H. Hoffman, Jennie Keizer, Bertha Kerr, Donald Lyden, Charles A. Loveland, Della Lehrbach, J. C. Morley, Nellie Osterhaut, Jessie M. O'Keefe, Minnie Ogle, F. H. ARMISTICE DAY IS MARKED BY FINE PROGRAMS

Patriotic Speeches and Elaborate Musical Program Feature Observance of the Day Here

BIG MEETING IN THEATER WITH TALK BY REV. STEWART

Special Sermons Given in Various Churches of the City Sunday

WITH flags flying over public buildings and business blocks, with stores and other business houses closed until noon and hundreds of persons participating in five programs this morning, La Crosse today observed Armistice day in patriotic style.

The general program was given at the La Crosse theater at 10:30. Other meetings in observance of the day were at the high school at 9:40 and 10:15, at the Normal school at 10, at the junior high school at 9:55 and at the La Crosse theater at nine o'clock, when the Catholic parochial schools had their exercises. Rev. W. S. Stewart was the speaker at the general meeting at the theater, A. H. Schubert at the high school, Kenneth Zahrte, Arthur Henderson and Eldon Mulder at the Normal school, Rev. E. C. Dixon at the junior high school, and John F. Doherty at the parochial school observance at the theater. Special musical programs featured each meeting. Ex-servicemen in uniform were seated on the platform at each of the meetings.

In Churches Sunday

Sermons appropriate to the day marked the services in La Crosse churches Sunday.

Following was the program at the general meeting in the theater at ten o'clock this morning:

"America" — Audience accompanied by the American Legion Band.
Prayer—Rev. C. C. Rowlison.
Selection—American Legion Band.
"In Flander's Fields"—Mr. Alby Blystad. Written by Mrs. Percy Ciley.
Silent tribute of 30 seconds at 11.
Address—Rev. W. S. Stewart.
"Star Spangled Banner"—American Legion Band.
Benediction—Rev. C. C. Rowlison.

Rev. Stewart's Talk

Rev. W. S. Stewart, speaking on "Freedom's Torch," said in part:

"Today is a day of reckoning! It is a day of thoughtfulness! It is a day of sacred memory: This Armistice Day of 1923!

"Five years have gone by since the guns of the world's greatest battlefront were silenced. Five years have passed since the greatest war in history was halted. Five years have forever passed into the bivouac of the dead. What is the recompense? Whither are we bound?

"We tramp onward towards freedom's domain. We push forward to the realm of liberty. America is seeking freedom. All nations desire to enter freedom's sacred portals. The history of the world is the struggle of the human family for freedom. The stories of the past wars, and of the world war are replete with the emergence of men toward freedom. Men have gladly suffered, and joyfully died if they could bring their fellow men closer to the territory of freedom. Even the most prosaic life; and even the most uninteresting bit of history is attractive and inviting if in its records the facts are known that freedom's cause is advanced, and her lighted torch is followed as it gleams on.

"Freedom's ground is sacred and holy. Freedom's territory is well protected. Her sentinels guard well. No one may enter her land who is not willing to pay the price demanded. Not by might of armies. Not by the beating of drums. Not by the flashing of swords are her armies conquered. The price of admission is far greater than any of these. The requirements of entrance are far more severe. For narrow is the path, and steep is the way that leads to her castle. Freedom's torch is always high.

"America, are we keeping our eyes on freedom's torch? America, do we fight to carry on that freedom may ultimately triumph and we reach the goal of our endeavors? America, are we making time? We cannot! We dare not! We must not! We will not be false to our trust! For this cause, and to this end came we into the world.

Could Not Keep Out

"Inevitable was our entrance into the great world war. If we had folded our arms and remained outside, and not participated in the conflict of '14-'18, we would have lost all the ground that we had gained in our progress toward the citadel of human freedom. The light of freedom's torch would have seemed indistinct, because of the distance that we would have been from its origin. We fought!

"It was a war to end all war. It was a war to bring in peace. It was a war to stamp out exploitation and greed, and to bring in brotherhood and peace. We fought, and won.

"No sooner had the first Armistice Day come, no sooner had we begun to plan for a peace than a new danger awaited us, ready to spring at us and shed our blood. Clothed with all the subtle suggestiveness of a race-peril, surrounded with all the vindictive forces of human passion, wafted into our very midst was this new terror to freedom's cause, war on the Pacific.

Tribute to Harding

"At the helm of our nation was a man of wisdom and foresight. Guiding our republic's destiny was a man who had fully learned the lesson of human freedom. The Washington disarmament conference called by our late lamented and much loved President Harding will long live as a master stroke for peace. For the sake of freedom from war-taxation. For the sake of amity and good friendship between the nations was the conference called. Like an electric storm did the conference clear the air on both sides of the Pacific. Freedom's torch gleamed on high.

"To this end may we stop for a moment, therefore, to give tribute to War-

WOMEN MAY HAVE OWN CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT IN 1924 ELECTION

THE "BIG THREE" IN THE WOMAN'S 1924 CAMPAIGN FOR FULL EQUALITY. LEFT TO RIGHT, MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT, ALICE PAUL AND MAUD YOUNGER

WASHINGTON.—A third party in the field—with a woman candidate for president—in 1924, on a platform of "equal rights as well as equal suffrage for women!"

Such is the program suggested by Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, president of the National Women's Party, in case the masculine-controlled political organizations do not react favorably to the equal rights amendment to be submitted to congress this winter.

The Woman's Party demands from Congress and the president enactment and approval of the amendment wiping out legal in-equalities between men and women.

If such amendment is refused and if both parties "stall" about making it a clear-cut issue in the 1924 battle, then a convention of the National Woman's Party, with a platform built by women for women and with women as standard bearers, may be the result.

On Nov. 17 a delegation of women headed by Maud Younger of San Francisco, Alice Paul, Inez Haynes, Irwin and other national leaders, will call on President Coolidge and submit a plea for their equal rights amendment.

With the convening of Congress, an intensive campaign for action will be begun. Should this fail, the major political parties will be given the opportunity to take a definite stand in their bid for the women's vote next fall. That failing—

Then look out for the Woman's Party convention and a woman candidate for chief executive. And a hot campaign!

WILSON EXPRESSES FAITH IN TRIUMPH OF HIS PRINCIPLES

Predicts Destruction to Foes in Armistice Day Address at Washington Home

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN PILGRIMAGE TO WILSON HOME

War President Greeted With Applause as He Appears

WASHINGTON. — A reaffirmation of faith in the ultimate triumph of the principles for which he has stood was spoken by Woodrow Wilson to a throng of friends and admirers on an Armistice day pilgrimage to his home here Sunday.

"I am not one of those," he declared, "that have the least anxiety about the triumph of the principles I have stood for.

"I have seen fools resist Providence before and I have seen their destruction, as will come upon these again—utter destruction and contempt. That we shall prevail is as sure as that God reigns."

A cheering throng of thousands packed the street and all nearby vacant space when Mr. Wilson appeared on the portico of his S street residence to deliver his second address in less than twenty-four hours and the third he has made since leaving the white house.

A little bent with his four years of illness, he stood with bared head, after waving a response to the outburst of applause which greeted him, while Senator Carter Glass of Virginia delivered the address on behalf of the visitors.

Although faltering a little once or twice, Mr. Wilson stood unassisted beside Senator Glass while he delivered the first portion of his address, in which he gave to the men of whom he was "proud to remember" he had been commander-in-chief, the credit of making the "Armistice possible."

Predicting a new turn in the nation's foreign policy, Senator Glass, in his address, declared "We shall soon be compelled to put aside the covert and feeble civilities of an unofficial observer to reveal our identity as a nation which means openly to take its part and give direction to things that involve the security and happiness of all mankind."

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—Oliver and Arvil Jones, two Ozark (Mo.) mountain boys, were convicted Sunday of the murder of Elno Jacobs, Soo line detective, during a gun battle.

The jury after deliberating all night Saturday, returned a verdict of guilty of second degree murder at 10 a. m. Sunday. The verdict included recommendations of from fourteen to twenty-five years' imprisonment. An appeal has been made for a new trial.

The additions bring the state system to ten thousand miles. The committee's findings were sent to county boards.

MERCHANTS MAKE ELABORATE PLANS FOR BIG OPENING

Christmas Season to be Launched in Stores on November 30

Plans for the community Christmas opening to be held on the evening of Friday, November 30th are taking definite form, according to Chairman A. E. Anderberg. The trees for the street decorations will be shipped very soon, the contract for the electrical work has been let, the band has been engaged, and the finance committees report generous returns.

The merchants are making the most elaborate plans in years. The newest and most novel Christmas gifts, in addition to practical gifts of all kinds, are beginning to arrive. Many stores, whose lines ordinarily prohibit extensive Christmas activities, are going to blossom out in Christmas attire. All in all, the affair promises to be full of delightful surprises when the curtains are withdrawn and the lights are turned on at eight o'clock.

How About Santa Claus.

But —and here is the rub—there has been no further word from Santa Claus since he talked over the radiophone with Chairman Anderberg. He was just a little bit dubious about being able to come, and he promised to let the committee know definitely in a day or two, but not a word has been received. Ben Ott has been trying to reach him from his big broadcasting station, but there has been no indication that his signals have been received. Ben says that he heard that the road over the Milky Way, over which Santa Claus must come, is in very bad shape, and full of dangerous detours, so maybe Santa is waiting until he feels sure that it will be safe for travelling. So all the committee can do is to wait and hope.

DOOR STILL OPEN FOR DEBT PARLEY SAYS LAWRENCE

Question of Holding Conference Without France Now Up to U. S. and Britain

PRESENT DEADLOCK ANTICIPATED IN NOTE FROM GREAT BRITAIN

May Extend Invitation to U. S. to Join Without France

LONDON.—By the Associated Press.—In consequence of the failure of the Franco-American negotiations at Washington over the scope of the proposed expert committee of inquiry, Great Britain has abandoned all thought of an immediate reparation inquiry, either with or without the participation of France.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1923.)

WASHINGTON.—The door is still open for a conference of experts to examine Germany's capacity to pay reparations but the question that the United States and Great Britain now must decide is whether the parley shall be held without the participation of France.

Italy, Belgium, the United States and Great Britain are in accord. France alone dissents. Under the Versailles treaty it is within the power of the reparations commission to employ experts to take any action by a majority vote except actually to reduce German indebtedness.

Secretary Hughes contends the purpose of the inquiry was merely advisory. So the powers that have accepted without reservation the British proposal that the reparations commission appoint experts to examine the question of Germany's capacity to pay can go ahead without France if they desire. Such a course might not offend France, as would be supposed at first glance, because then the inquiry could be conducted without acceptance by the French of any responsibility for the findings of the commission of experts. "What Premier Poincare has wanted has been freedom of action so that he would not appear to be committing France to a reduction of German debt. If France is not a part of the inquiry, her rights will be absolutely safeguarded and the Poincare government saved from internal political attack.

Anticipated Deadlock

Great Britain foresaw such a situation as has developed because in the original note to the United States the question was asked whether the American government would participate in an inquiry if there happened to be a lack of unanimity on the part of the allies as to the desirability of a conference. The United States nat-

BRITAIN WON'T ASK GERMANY TO BAR PRINCE

Not Likely to Act Individually or With Allies is Word from London

LONDON PRESS SEES SINISTER MOTIVES BEHIND THE INCIDENT

Village of Oels Shows Little Enthusiasm Over Return

BERLIN.—6 p. m.—By The Associated Press.—The Whereabouts of former Crown Prince Frederick William is still a mystery at this hour, so far as authentic information in Berlin is concerned but it is declared on good authority that he is expected to arrive at Oels in the course of this evening.

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Great Britain is not likely to take individual action looking to the ejectment of former Crown Prince Frederick William from Germany, or is it at all probable that she will stress his banishment in any collective representations which may be made through the council of ambassadors, it was declared here Monday.

Within Rights Says Berlin

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—A German note replying to the protest of the council of ambassadors against the return to Germany of former Crown Prince Frederick William was received here today. The note is understood to be of an unsatisfactory nature. It is understood the German note takes the stand that Frederick William possesses the same rights as other German citizens, and that the German government has no reproach to make against him.

Foreign Offices to Act

The return to Germany of Crown Prince Frederick William, and what the allies can do about it will be discussed by the foreign offices of the allied governments instead of the council of ambassadors. Great Britain, through her ambassador at Paris, Lord Crewe, proposed this method of handling the case to Premier Poincare, and it is understood that M. Poincare agreed.

The measures to be taken by the allies regarding Frederick William have not yet been disclosed and apparently there is difficulty in finding any satisfactory course of action.

Await Move of Council

BRUSSELS.—The Belgium government will support any measures or penalties agreed upon by the allied council of ambassadors regarding former Prince Frederick William under article 228, paragraph Z, of the treaty of Versailles, requiring Germany to surrender war criminals. The Belgian ambassador in Paris has been instructed to this effect.

See Underlying Danger

LONDON.—The return of Frederick William to Germany has caused much speculation as to whether more is behind the incident than would be implied merely by a consideration of his personal insignificance.

Some commentators argue that his personality has little to do with the situation.

The Morning Post says he is neither an heroic nor an honorable figure, but that history shows a small person is sometimes used to launch a great enterprise and that it is impossible to dissociate his return from the outbreak in Munich.

The Daily Chronicle thinks his presence in Germany must immediately create a focussing point for monarchist plots.

No one attaches much importance to the undertaking of the prince or the German government that he will abstain from meddling in policies, and there is a pretty general assumption that his return means a bid for the throne.

Stresemann, the article says, persuaded his colleagues that the safety

WHEAT REGIONS OF CANADA EXCEED LAST RECORD YIELD

WINNIPEG, Manitoba.—The total wheat crop of the Canadian provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is estimated by government officials at 425,593,169 bushels, an increase of 50,000 bushels over the record 1922 yield. The three provinces now produce approximately 95 percent of all wheat grown in the Dominion, officials said.

Forty-five and 50 bushel yields were reported in a number of areas while in others the run was 60 bushels to the acre. The wheat weighed between 63 and 67 pounds to the bushel and more than 90 percent of it graded No. 1 hard.

WISCONSIN POTATO CROP POOR; BETTER IN OTHER STATES

Badger Crop Sixty-four Per Cent of Last Year's; Production in Nation Shows Improvement

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Little change in the Wisconsin potato crop prospects over conditions on October 1, is reported by the November crop summary of the state and federal crop reporting service, issued here today. The production for the state is estimated at twenty-six million bushels, which is sixty-four per cent of the state's crop last year.

The potato crop for the nation showed an increase in estimated production this month of fifteen million bushels over the October estimate, the report states. The estimate for the nation is 417 million bushels, which is 34 million bushels below last year, 70 million above 1921, and 14 million above 1920.

The average yield in Wisconsin is estimated by growers reporting to the crop department to be ninety-six bushels per acre. Yields in northern Wisconsin are above the average, it is stated, but in a group of ten central and western countries the yields are low due to drouth and early frost. Last year the state produced forty-one million bushels.

Only two states, Maine and New York show a production prospect greater than last year, according to the summary. In Maine, estimates are 12 million bushels over last year's crop of 22 million. Wisconsin shows the greatest reduction of any state.

Heat from a Hawaiian volcanic range is used as a kitchen range.

GREAT ORGANIST TO PLAY FRIDAY AT LOCAL CHURCH

Edward Rechlin, the foremost Lutheran organist in this country will give a concert at Our Savior's Lutheran church, Sixth and Division streets next Friday evening, November 16. Mr. Rechlin was here a year ago and scored a big hit at the same church. That his return engagement will draw a large audience is assured.

Of his playing, the St. Louis Times says:

"Yet through phrasing, building up and climaxes and reducing the volume of tone to a fine pianissimo, his playing had an infinite variety. In Bach's prelude, based on the old hymn, 'Our Father, Thou Art in Heaven Above,' there was a tremendous use of bass pipes and a grating of the melody in sonorous sentences that made the music speak of omnipotence and everlasting laudation; in the organist's own arrangement of the choral harmonization based on the hymn, 'Jesus, Suffering, Pain and Woe,' there was a tenderness that touched the emotions.

"The unlimited possibilities of the organ as an instrument for the expression of soul-felt worship and devotion were demonstrated last night at Holy Cross Lutheran church, Ohio Avenue and Miami street, by Edward Rechlin of New York and formerly of St. Louis, who is regarded as America's greatest interpreter of Bach."

BAN ON WOMEN SMOKERS IN COLORADO PENITENTIARY

DENVER, Col.—By The Associated Press.—Female prisoners in the Colorado state penitentiary are no longer permitted the solace of smoking within the walls of the institution, according to Warden Thomas Tynan. The male prisoners are to be allowed to continue the use of the weed, however.

In answer to protests against his action, Warden Tynan said: "It doesn't look well to see women smoke. If they want to smoke, let 'em keep out of the penitentiary."

Four-fifths of the women inmates of the Colorado penitentiary smoke, according to statements made by investigators. A regular tobacco ration is issued to the male prisoners.

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Awakening

THERE is a new voice in France, striking a note that has hitherto been drowned out by Poincare's thundering bass. It belongs to what is known as the League for the Rights of Man, and its keynote is to be the basis of the fight against the present premier in the elections next spring, according to dispatches from American reporters. The platform adopted by the league calls the occupation of the Ruhr "an act of war," illegal and profitless, which has strengthened German reactionaries, weakened German liberals, produced worse hatred than in war-time and isolated France from Great Britain and the United States. It demands a real international conference on German capacity to pay and prompt evacuation of the Ruhr when adequate guarantees of payment are put into effect.

There is no way of telling how strong this voice of protest may be. Outside of France it will be welcomed, but it starts late in the day. Poincare has made the running so far, and has the great advantage of appearing as his country's champion against beleaguering foes. Nevertheless there must be some suspicion in France as to the validity of his policy. The Ruhr adventure is nearing its first anniversary, and obviously neither French prestige nor pocketbook has benefited. M. Poincare has published figures to show that in four years France has only netted 244,000,000 gold marks to apply on Germany's obligation to her, but the figure represents what is left after subtracting occupation costs of 1,908,496 gold marks from total payments in cash and kind of 2,152,492,000 gold marks. Surely the futility of using so much of the debtor's dwindling resources to make the collection has not escaped the French voter. It must have aroused certain doubts as to whether there is not a less expensive means, one which will net more for the creditor.

The League for the Rights of Man starts late, but it has a rich capital of reactionary mistakes from which to draw ammunition for its campaign. And it is a reassuring symptom if for no other reason than that it assures Poincare's policy of some more responsible and respectable criticism and opposition than that of the communists, who until now have been its only organized political critics. The reds could not rally the body of conservative Frenchmen, no matter how glaring the faults of the administration. Perhaps the new liberal organization may have a better approach.

Too Easy

LESS than half of the qualified voters of this country, by and large, vote even in presidential elections, when the biggest vote is always cast. This figure has been bothering believers in democratic government, who see in the control of elections by the minority that takes its politics seriously continual defeat of the method and purpose of our form of government. In Detroit, during the recent mayoralty campaign, a determined effort to check this tendency and get the stay-at-home voter to the polls was made by means of the telephone. Every subscriber was called the morning of election day, asked if he had voted, and if he had doubts about where he should vote was connected with a bureau that gave him all necessary information. Yet less than ten per cent of the total population of Detroit went to the polls, probably not much more than the usual fifty per cent of qualified voters.

One wonders if, perhaps, this general lack of interest in the privilege of the franchise may not be attributed at least in part to that perversity which is so widely ramified through every phase of human activity. People attach as a rule little importance to what is free, to whatever may be had without effort. In England, where only 17 million of the total population are qualified to vote for members of parliament, most of the vote is out at every election. To qualify for a parliamentary elector the voter must pay a certain tax. Similar restrictions govern the qualifications for voting in municipal affairs. This is contrary to the universal franchise theory which rules in the United States; contrary to our notions of democracy. Nevertheless it gets out the vote. The example is not cited as one to be followed in this country, or presented as an improvement on our system. It is obvious that if only a portion of the population may vote elections are decided there also by a minority. But it does afford some evidence that the rule that people value more those things which require an effort for possession than those which are free has its political application.

One of the biggest votes ever cast in the state of Oklahoma was polled in the election at which Governor Walton forbade the citizens to go to the voting booths.

Sowing the Whirlwind

A CHICAGO dispatch records that John A. Jones, contractor and former alderman, was killed from injuries received when a taxicab plowed through a group of pedestrians. A woman was instantly killed and many were injured. It is a good story for La Crosse to read. Taxicabs in this city have seemed more or less immune to traffic laws. They break the speed limits in crowded streets. They pass traffic on the wrong side of the street. As a rule they are driven by skillful men, but their haste jeopardizes public safety. The general impression may be that they hurry because their patrons are in a hurry. Probably nine out of ten people who ride in taxicabs hold on to the seat in desperation and wonder if they will arrive at their destination. The hurry is not a matter of public service. People do not want to ride in this reckless fashion. The haste is due to the desire of the driver, perhaps urged by his employer, to discharge the passenger as quickly as possible in order to get another. If it is not stopped, some day we shall read the death list in an accident where "a taxicab plowed through a group of pedestrians."

Tin Lizzie Plays Providence

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"Tell me something, please!" Fanette said, wiping her forehead; 'Namely, how did Maud Muller rake hay, yet keep her looks? It's harder than gatherin' blackberries, but we're mighty near scarecrows; so near we'd sure scare judges if one came."

"Judges don't ride our circuit, only preachers; and you know you wouldn't have a preacher, not even for soap grease, as Mammy always put it," Linny answered, sighing a huge sigh as she swung her big rough hat high above her head. Home plaited from rye straw, it was serviceable, but by no stretch of imagination picturesque, with its shoe-string band and the narrow place in the brim coming rakishly over the left ear. "A preacher wouldn't mind even this," she went on, "All I ever saw are such gluttons for blackberry pie."

"No preacher's going to get even a look at these," Fanette flung back. "They are meat for his masters. Scarce meat, too—with so many roads clear of hedgerows, and those wretched autos, runing with their dust more than half what's left. I mean to ask 50 cents a gallon for this lot—that'll be two whole dollars if we get a half-bushel."

"Ask? You'll hardly receive," Linny flung back. "We'll be lucky if old Slim Jones doesn't screw us down to 50 cents for the whole lot."

"He'd love to, I know—but remember, we've got one pig left. And I'd rather kill him with a blackberry feast than let that old skeesicks plunder us that way," Fanette snapped. "Lord! How I hate him!" she ran on. "He shouldn't come inside the gate. If there was any other way of getting stuff to market."

"I wish," Linny began desperately, "somebody'd lose a nice new car right where we could find it. I know I could drive it."

"Why, you little rascal," Fanette exploded with a grin. "Have we got down to car-stealing? Lucky we won't be tempted, way I feel now."

"I wouldn't steal it, never in the world," Linny protested. "Only load it with all we've got—June apples, trase berries, early cabbage, whatever else is in the garden, and run it in town, hunting an owner."

"A lark. Too good to happen," Fanette sighed. For ten minutes they picked in silence, the sun getting higher and hotter each second. But the big basket, brimmed, the gathering cups were so near full, human endurance wilted—the pickers with one accord made their way from the old-field tangle, carrying the baskes between them, the cups weighing down their free hands.

As they freely admitted, they were sights—in rugged faded print, scuffed shoes, and the floppy hats. They had never been able to afford either overalls, or knickers; with five-cent cotton, and the taxes, every cent counted.

No stranger could take them for the gent'lewomen they were—so they did not in least mind a sharpish halt as they came to the main road in front of their gate. A nice new flivver stood there with a man in goggles slouching over the wheel.

Not a thing of beauty even without them—lantern-jawed, dour and ramrod-like of contour; except his face—that was red and oddly puffy. He shouted:

"Hey you two! Git me somebody can drive this machine! Quick—it's got to meet the feller that owns it in a wink or so—he's due on the twelve o'clock train. And I run into a hornet's nest back yonder—got so stung I can't hardly open my eyes. So you get busy—skeer up help of some sort—I'll wait on the porch of that house yonder. Till you come back—and pay well—a dollar, maybe—to whoever goes and comes back safe."

Fanette looked at Linny—the look was returned. Followed a whispered conference, quick shaking of heads, then quicker nods. It was Linny who at last said audaciously: "We're just fixin to take a load of truck to town—if your car can hold it, we'll take it there—and only charge you three dollars."

The man protested angrily—Linny stood pat. Consequently half an hour later, he watched with blurred vision, the vanishing car, the while swearing at himself as seven sorts of a fool, trusting evidently poor whites with a brand new machine. If they ruined it, Tommy Hinton would use language to him—his farm manager, Mister Joe-Bob Jenkins.

But what else could a man do, when that warn't nothin' else to be done? If Tommy Hinton acted up—well, he might go to grass—and be hanged to him.

Linny had a turn for mechanics. Plus yearning study of auto catalogues it stood her in good stead. After the first tremulous half mile she hit it up like a veteran—and came to Bellsburg town palpitant with joy. In shrouding sun bonnets and clean calico frocks, the Aymar twins were ready to face the world. Since fate helps those who help themselves, the train was two hours behind time—thus they had the chance of a lifetime to market their wares.

With results that made them thrill—and choke. Fifteen dollars for what old Slim Jones would never in the world have given five—to say nothing of his preterse that he bought "Just fer accommodation."

Parking in a vacant lot that boasted shade, the twins cleared the car of every trace of commerce. They even dusted the hood and brushed mud specks from the fenders, wondering whom they could trust to take it to the train. They didn't want to be seen there, even though the alternative was walking seven miles home. But again fate led trumps for them. The whistle of the approaching train cut across their discussion, so there was nothing for it but to make a dash for it.

Even then they were barely in time. A tall young fellow stood frowning upon the platform, asking of space where Joe-Bob Jenkins could be. The frown vanished when he was answered in squeaky, falsetto, from sunbonnet depths: "He's waitin' for ye, on our porch. Hornets stung him so near blind we had to come for you."

"Hurrah for you!" Hinton said laughing, never dreaming that sunbonnets and faded calico masked women of his own sort. Indeed, he took them to be regular hucksters. They smelled delicately of fruit and growth. Over his shoulder, he called to a stranger lounging in the shade: "Hop in, Bill—er—better stow the plunder. I must settle with these good ladies," having grandly, "for their great kindness; that is, if they permit"—stopping unaccountably, perhaps because of sudden stiffening in the figures facing him.

"They do not permit," said two merry voices. "We really owe you money—that we don't mean to pay. Then all in a huddle came the whole story of adventure, ending with: "You see we're so indecently rich we think of offering you a commission to take us back home."

That was the beginning. A mighty prosperous one. Inside two days Tommy Hinton and Billy Sneed, his chum, were fairly haunting the Aymar place. Of course, the twins couldn't hinder their coming—equally of course, they didn't try very hard. After a fortnight the young men came with grave faces, but twinkling eyes, to say: "We're here to ask you to choose between us—take your pick, as it were—it will save trouble with just two and two."

"How?" asked Linny.

"I don't understand," said Fanette, flushing beautifully.

"How stupid of you," said Tommy. "You're certain to choose dead wrong—then think of the fun we'll have swapping."

"Oh me! I like that!" from Linny plaintively. "Suppose we don't choose either of you—what then?"

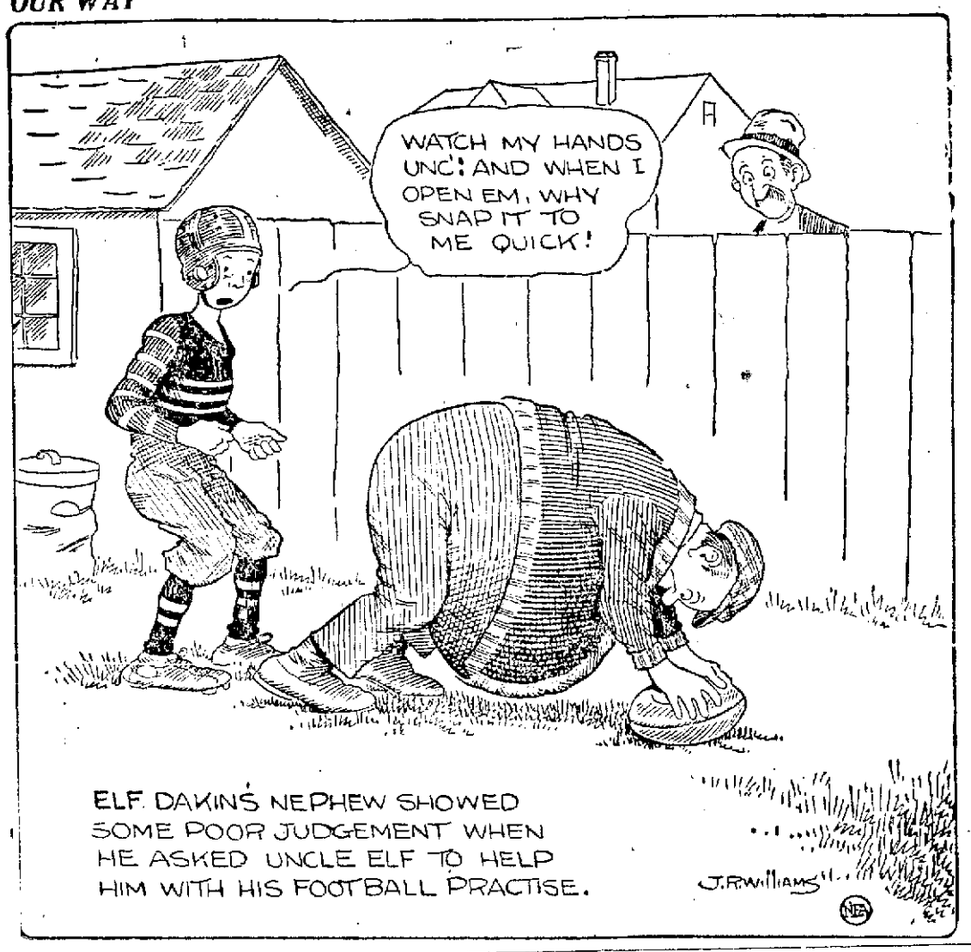

"Resort to cave-man methods," Sneed said, catching her right in his arms. "Possibly you'd rather have Tommy—but in confidence he's daffy about Fanette."

"I'm sure she's welcome to him," from saucy Linny.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

The Joys

Of whiter, cleaner teeth

Let this test reveal them

Here is a way which has brought to millions prettier teeth and safer. You will never go without its benefits when once you find them out.

Accept the test we offer. Watch the results for a few days. They will be a revelation.

By fighting film

The results come by fighting film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. Under old methods, much of that film resists the tooth brush, clings and stays.

Soon the film discolors, then ms dingy coats, so white teeth their beauty.

Most tooth troubles are also due to film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Ways of escape

Dental science has now found two effective film combatants. One acts to disintegrate the film, one to remove it without harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Careful people of some 50 nations have adopted this tooth paste, largely by dental advice.

Pepsodent meets the new-day requirements, based on modern research. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant.

Those are Nature's agents for neutralizing acids and digesting starch deposits. Pepsodent gives them manifold effect, while old ways reduced their power. Thus it brings new cleanliness, new protection, without using harmful grit.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will be surprised and delighted. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

INTERNATIONAL SHOW WILL OPEN SOON IN CHICAGO

State Grain Show at Richland Center; Farm Schools in Vernon County

The twenty-fourth international livestock exposition will be held at the Wilson stockyards, Chicago, December 1 to 8. Exhibits promise to be better and larger than ever. Visitors to this show will come from all quarters of the continent and the animals sold at auction sales will be widely scattered to aid in improving the quality of livestock raised in the many sections.

A feature of the show will be the junior department which will be represented by the junior farmers' national club congress. Plans have been made by the Omaha & Northwestern railway to give free transportation to the best club boy or girl of every county in the state of Wisconsin through which their road passes or is touched by their road. Unfortunately under this plan Vernon county will not be sending a boy or girl on free transportation given by these particular railroads. However, junior farmers of Vernon county extend their best wishes to junior farmers of other counties most fortunate in getting to this international exposition through this method.

Grain Show to Richland Center

Richland Center put in a successful bid for the 1924 state grain show. The dates have been set for the week of January 28 to February 2. The Kiwanis club together with the committee of farmers of all parts of the country are taking charge of the arrangements and are putting forth every effort to make this the largest and best show in the association history. The show will be staged in the auditorium. Mark your calendar now for January 28 to February 2. Every corn grower and every grain grower of purebred seeds should take advantage of this show and exhibit their goods. Those who are not growing purebred grains can at least attend the show and enjoy the association of those who are exhibiting in trying to promote purebred seeds.

Discussion School at Hillsboro

The farmers' discussion school at Hillsboro which began November 7, Wednesday had a very interesting half day session. The growers and admirers of that well renowned plant, alfalfa, congregated together to iron out some of the difficulty of alfalfa production. The subject of seed was also discussed. Up to the time of this meeting 2,000 or more pounds of certified grim alfalfa seed were ordered. This order was placed with Mr. Davis of the high school and Mr. Kilmer of the cow testing association.

The largest problem under discussion was that of obtaining limestone. Owing to the weight of this material it was deemed unadvisable to transport for any great distance. Topography was the greatest item of consideration. Owing to this condition Mr. Havlick of Wonewoc who grows considerable alfalfa, presented a definite plan whereby he obtains limestone for liming purposes. His plan was to quarry the stone and pile it up on his farm, then import a crusher and grind and apply the stone when convenient. Mr. Dreischmeier, also prominent in growing alfalfa, sought a quicker means for return and immediately ordered fifty tons of limestone for as early delivery as possible. In summing up the discussion as concluded by Mr. Sands, county agent of Juneau county, his recommendation was as follows: First, sample; second, test; third, lime; fourth, prepare seed bed; fifth, obtain good seed; sixth, inoculate; seventh, sow about May 1.

The next discussion school will be held on Wednesday, November 14 at 1 p. m. The topic for discussion will be feeds and feeding. The third discussion school will be held November 21, 1923. The subject, "Dairy Breeds and Soil Fertility." The fourth of these sessions will be held on Monday, November 26. The subject, "Farm Accounts and Poultry." The concluding number will be on December 5. The subject, "Marketing Which Will Include Egg Circle and Dairy Co-operation."

Discussion School at Viroqua

The farmers' discussion school at Viroqua will begin Saturday, November 17th. The junior class will be conducted from 9 to 12 each Saturday morning continuing for ten weeks. The farmers' adult class will be conducted in the afternoon from 1 to 4 also continuing for ten weeks. It is hoped that through this discussion a better understanding may be obtained of the production problems of farm crops and livestock as well as a thorough discussion of successful marketing of tobacco, eggs and butter. These schools are conducted free of charge and all are invited to attend. Please watch publications for definite dates of program as directed by Mr. Power, agricultural instructor of the high school.

Cow Testing Notes

Mr. Kilmer, of the Hillsboro Cow Testing association reports for the month of October.

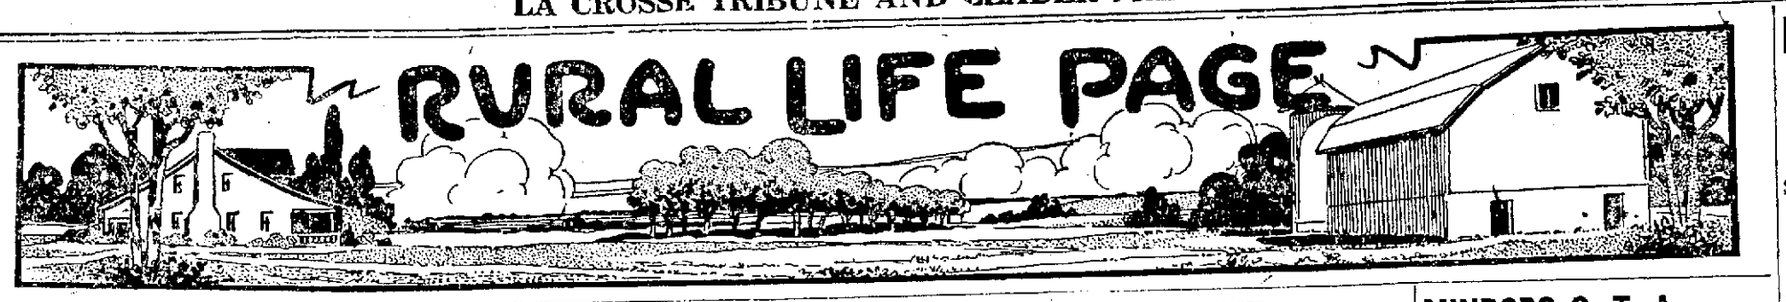

During the month 28 cows produced forty or more pounds of butterfat. The high herd for the month is the property of J. M. Johnson whose herd produced 959 pounds of fat in 713 pounds of milk. The ten high high cows for the association are included herewith.

MEXICAN DEPUTIES ADVOCATE SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT

MEXICO CITY.—A group of deputies have announced their intention to inaugurate a campaign for the reformation of Article 83 of the constitution in order to lengthen the presidential term from four to six years. They assert that under the present system the executive has only two years to devote to constructive work, since during the other two his time is fully occupied by purely political questions.

Only a very few cases of yellow fever were reported last year in Mexico, Brazil and Africa.

CONVENTION IN SESSION URGES RECORD KEEPING

Month by Month Record Needed to Measure Supply and Demand

PITTSBURG, Pa. — Wesley H. Bronson of the New England Milk Producers' Association told the National Milk Producers' Federation here Thursday, how cooperative marketing associations can utilize statistics in their business operations. The seventh annual meeting of the National Milk Producers' Federation was held last week-end in this city. "There is need," said he, "for marketing organizations to keep definite numerical facts month by month and year by year by year on material that is necessary for the proper measurement of supply and demand and the factors influencing it.

"We in New England have been doing this since 1917 but more detail perhaps since 1920, when a special department was created to care for this work. The main facts we record measure supply and demand, costs of production, actual and relative prices and business conditions.

"We measure supply and demand primarily by the returns to us of the purchases and sales of milk by our larger dealers. The totals in the Boston markets of purchases and sales of milk for these dealers are combined adjusted to a thirty day month and plotted on a chart each month. It is true that these figures give us past rather than present conditions but with five years records thus recorded, we find them of great value in comparing with past years and forecasting into the future. In addition to the composite of the larger dealers, we chart each individual dealer and these charts help us to verify the records of purchases and sales and tell us facts regarding effect of price changes and market conditions on different types of milk businesses.

"Our cost of milk production is determined each month. The costs are based on the quantity of feed, labor and other items needed to produce 100 pounds of milk. To these quantities are applied each month new feed costs. Labor costs are changed twice a year. The prices of grain are obtained from some 250 retail grain dealers scattered throughout the New England states who report to us monthly. Hay prices are taken from the United States Department of Agriculture Crop Report, while labor costs are obtained twice a year directly from the farmers by the use of a detailed questionnaire. A seasonal factor is applied to these costs to give the monthly costs. The prices received are always compared with these cost figures and they show how near we are coming to giving the farmer costs of production. Right here I might say that our prices have come nearer costs of production this year than any year for which we have records.

"Actual prices are kept on a large number of items in order that we may have a record of values for comparison with past years and months. The first of importance to us of course are the prices actually received for milk. These are recorded and charted as weighted average prices in the country. Other price records are on butter, grain, hay, labor, competitor's prices such as the Dairymens' League in New York State and the co-operative creameries in Vermont. Milk prices in local markets, retail prices of milk and many others of similar nature are also kept.

"It is difficult to compare actual milk prices with actual butter, grain hay or labor prices or with prices in general. It is important to know whether or not the milk prices are high, low or about right. When are prices high or low? As I take it they are high or low compared with the prices of some other commodities. We have therefore worked out the relative prices of milk using as a base the prices for the years 1910 to 1914 for the same month.

"The price of milk averaged in September for the years 1910 to 1914, $1.77 per hundredweight. The average price in the same zone last September was $2.92, or the price this year was 65 per cent above the price for the pre-war years. Compared with this price for milk, we find that general prices were 5 per cent above pre-war, butter 56 per cent above, grain 48 per cent above, hay 27 per cent above and farm wages 83 per cent above.

"We keep a very close watch on those factors which indicate favorable or unfavorable business conditions, for one thing that has been demonstrated in our market and also in other markets which we have studied, is that the conditions of business is a very important factor in influencing milk prices. The indicator I watch most closely as a forecaster of business conditions is the interest rate. Interest rates and tight money inevitably mean the coming of a business depression. The easy money conditions of this Fall mean in my opinion continued good business conditions through the winter months and probably most of 1924.

Some of the facts the statistical studies have demonstrated to us:

1. Milk prices closely follow business conditions with a lag of six to nine months.

2. Milk prices have a definite relationship to butter prices with milk prices much better than butter during the months when milk is short.

3. The price of grain effects milk production more than the price of hay or even the price of farm labor.

4. The price of hay seems to have little effect on production.

5. The price in the large markets such as Boston, comes close to making the price in the smaller local markets.

6. With our records we can closely forecast milk butter prices and milk production and demand.

7. Facts are needed when appearing in an investigation of milk prices by a public authority and such cannot be assembled in a minute.

8. With facts we can get better prices for our producers than without them and finally, we get further with such facts than we can with clubs."

BRAN CONSUMED IN GREAT QUANTITIES BY BADGER CATTLE

MADISON, Wis.—The state uses 200,000 tons of bran a year according to the state department of agriculture. Most of this is used as cattle ration.

Much of this bran is made in Wisconsin but there is a considerable amount sent in from other states.

Bran frequently contains weed seeds and the imported bran is watched carefully to prevent the increase of Wisconsin weeds.

HONEY BRANDED AS HEALTH ASSET BY DR. JULIE STEVENS

Week of November 19 to 25 to be Known as "Honey Week"

MADISON, Wis.—Honey has been endorsed as a health asset by many. One of its endorsers is Dr. Julie Stevens who acted as dietitian to Mme. Sarah Bernhardt during the long and varied career of that beloved star of the French and American stage.

Dr. Stevens in a brief statement says: "If you would live to a ripe old age choose your food carefully." For years the doctor declares her breakfast has consisted of a slice of bread, butter and a generous spread of honey.

Doctor C. A. Harper, health officer for the state of Wisconsin, is another believer in the health value of honey and has officially endorsed "Honey Week," which is to be staged in the state November 19 to 25. Harper believes that too much of the refined sweet preparations are used as a basis for food. Children, he claims, are given too many of the so-called "nick-nacks" all of which are highly sweetened. These "nick-nacks" in Harper's opinion, lessen the youngster's appetite for the more wholesome foods.

"If honey could be substituted in reasonable quantities in the place of many other sweets used," says Doctor Harper, "I am sure we would have a healthier citizenship."

TUESDAY WILL BE OPENING DAY FOR INSTITUTES

About 200 Meetings Will be Held During Winter by Workers

MADISON Wis.—Institute workers of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture will fire the opening gun of the 1923-24 season on November 13 when four institutes will get under way. Although the institute season is not in full swing in the southern counties of the state until along in January, the northern counties will be served in the late fall before the extreme weather prevents attendance.

Approximately 200 meetings will be held this winter, E. L. Luther, who supervises this work, declares. The demand for institutes is greater than ever this year, many new communities having made applications to bring the workers to their towns. The staff of workers numbers twenty in all.

In the southern part of the state the use of lime, growing alfalfa, cooperative marketing of cheese and butter, livestock, and women's problems will look up the programs which will be presented. A slight variation will be used in the less highly developed communities of the north and emphasis will be placed on general farming topics and the solution of dairy farming difficulties.

Following is the list of towns and counties which will hold institutes during the coming month:

November 13-14, Clams Falls, Polk county; Fall Creek, Eau Claire Co.; Barksdale, Bayfield; Webster, Burnett November 15-16, Winter, Sawyer county; Borea, Douglas; Mason, Bayfield; Town of McKinly, Polk. November 20-21, Stone Lake, Sawyer county; Oakland Town Hall, Douglas; Cable, Bayfield; Pipe Lake School, Polk; Memomonie, Dunn. November 20-21, Town of Cleveland, Chippewa county. November 22-23, San Creek, Dunn county. November 26-27, Weston, Dunn.

The December institutes will open on the fourth with meetings at Wilson, Eau Claire county; Saxon, Iron; Ojibwa, Sawyer; Springbrook, Washburn, December 6-7. Cleghorn, Eau Claire county; Iron Belt, Iron; Meadowbrook, Sawyer; Trego, Washburn, December 11-12. Augusta, Eau Claire county; Frederic, Polk; Port Wing, Bayfield; Grantsburg, Burnett.

OCTOBER SETS NEW CATTLE EXPORTING RECORD FOR STATE

MADISON, Wis.—Records of the Wisconsin department of agriculture show that October established a new high record for shipments of dairy cattle, when 8,018 head or 286 carloads crossed the Wisconsin borders into other states. Farmers entering the dairy business in other states have come to look upon Wisconsin as a source of dairy cattle, and the movement into other states has been growing rapidly. Shipments during each of the nine months of this year have exceeded past years and the purchases to date are about one-third greater than for the corresponding nine months a year ago.

Out of state buyers come to Wisconsin in largest numbers during the fall months, and it is expected that the 1923 shipments will approach 55,000 head compared to 42,000 head purchased in 1922. Prevailing prices are higher than a year ago. The program of eradicating tuberculosis from Wisconsin herds is doing a great deal to establish confidence of outside buyers in Wisconsin, where they can secure clean, healthy cattle.

Rugby Centenary

Rugby football as a sport will be 100 years old in November. A match in honor of the event is being arranged in England, at which more than 2,000 former Rugby players and fans will be present. The enthusiasm is becoming intense and many unique demonstrations are promised.

FARM BUREAU HOLDS ELECTION AT RUSHFORD

RUSHFORD, Minn.—The annual meeting of the Rushford Unit of the Fillmore County Farm Bureau was recently held here with the following officers elected for the coming year: President, M. O. Kjos; vice president, Peter Colbjornson; secretary, George Higham. Efforts of the Rushford unit's members will be concentrated upon getting the organization upon a firm footing and direct its standing to an equal with other units in the county.

SPARTA BUSINESS MEN BEHIND NEW SALES PAVILION

Three-fourths of Stock is Already Subscribed to Start Movement

SPARTA, Wis.—Many of the business men in the city are getting behind a movement to have a sales pavilion built in Sparta. The Holstein and Guernsey sales recently held in the city have demonstrated the fact more clearly than ever, and furnished proof that Sparta needs a sales pavilion.

Mr. Schultz, former owner of the Square Deal garage, gave the use of his garage building for these sales, and it served very well as temporary headquarters, but a permanent place is needed. Regular semi-annual sales have now been established, if proper housing arrangements can be made. The crowd attending these sales has been on the increase, and it means that more seating capacity, in a place where proper heating can be had, is necessary if the interest is to continue. Comfortable quarters for the cattle must also be provided. About three-fourths of the pavilion stock has already been subscribed, and it is hoped the balance will be taken up at once.

If the balance of the stock can be sold soon, it is possible that the pavilion could be built and in readiness for the spring sales, which will take place some time in March. Subscriptions can be left at the banks, or with Charles Vabder Schaaf, George Weimer or Will Hanchett.

INDEX OF STATE STOCK BREEDERS BEING COMPILED

Many Novel Features Will be Woven into New Directory

MADISON, Wis.—A complete index of all stock breeders in this state is being compiled by the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association under the direction of Reid Murray, secretary, who is also connected with Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Many novel features and helps will be woven into the new directory. A complete list of approved veterinarians in the state, names of the pedigree companies, sales managers of all of the different breeds, livestock insurance companies, lists of newspapers for advertising purposes, auctioneers and pedigree men for the various breeds are among the practical helps which will be listed in the new directory. Maps showing the progress of cow-testing associations, official testing and tuberculosis eradication work will round out the volume.

Several prominent stockmen in the state have promised to contribute short articles on the progress of the breeds within the borders of Wisconsin. These directories have proven invaluable in the past to stockmen in the state and are of especial worth to out-of-state buyers.

HIGHEST DAIRY HONOR FOR DR. S. M. BABCOCK

MADISON, Wis.—The highest honor in the dairy world was paid to Dr. S. M. Babcock, Madison, inventor of the milk test, by the National Creamery Buttermakers' association in session here last week. Dr. Babcock received the gold medal annually presented by the association for the one making the greatest contribution to the dairy industry. Gustave De Laval, inventor of the De Laval separator, was given similar honors. Dr. De Laval died recently.

MINDORO C. T. A. GIVES REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER

Herd, Which Milked on the Average About Ten Months Tops List

The month of September shows a change in the feeding schedules of members of the Mindoro Cow Testing association. Members are now steadily increasing the amount of concentrates, and dried roughage feed, as the pastures cannot be depended upon to furnish nutrients to maintain a good production. Four members are feeding ensilage.

Young Brothers' herd of Grade Guernseys acquired high herd honors. This herd, composed of cows that have milked on the average, about ten months, produced an average of 28.9 pounds of butterfat made from 522 pounds of milk.

Bert Welda's Grade Guernsey "Bird" in her second lactation month, again as in her first month, placed high cow in the association with a record of 846 pounds of milk making 42.3 pounds of butterfat.

MEMBERSHIP OF FARM BUREAU IS INCREASED TO 800

The Houston County Farm Bureau drive for members Monday and Tuesday was very successful and the solicitors were hailed with a glad hand practically everywhere. When all returns were in, J. C. Driscoll, county director, estimated that the membership would be over 800.

Since County Agent W. D. Stegner took charge of the Farm Bureau office last July, he has spared no effort to place Houston county among the top-nitchers of the state. His organization of Beef and Dairy clubs, poultry culling demonstrations, Milk-testing associations, etc., has brought much profit to the farmer, and their families and the success of this membership campaign is largely the result of his labors the past four months.

MOTOR HAULED MILK SUPPLIED TO MILWAUKEE

Splendid System Brings Milk Fresh to City Every Morning

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—All but ten per cent of the Milwaukee milk supply is hauled from farm to city by motor trucks. All but ten per cent of the trucks used for this business are owned by the farmers. Even the Wisconsin snow storms do not stop the trucks from keeping up this vitally important food supply, promptly and regularly reaching its destination.

This in substance, is the story told the annual meeting of the National Milk Producers' Federation Thursday morning by G. R. Rice, secretary of the Milk Producers' association which supplies most of the milk to Milwaukee.

Secretary Rice pointed out that Milwaukee is fortunate in having practically all of its incoming country highways concreted. This makes the milk supply a simple problem with the modern motor truck, capable of giving very efficient service regardless of season. The only thing that gives any trouble is a heavy snow storm, but with available machinery the moving of the obstructing snow is a matter of hours only after the wind stops the drifting.

The trucks start loading in some instances 25 miles away, about seven a. m., and pick up as they travel toward the unloading point. When the truckman lives at the country end of his route, he returns the empties the same day, those that live in the city deliver the empties the next morning. The one living in the country frequently operates a farm or other business besides doing the milk hauling, those living in the city try to arrange for other use of the truck.

Individuals Own Trucks

The trucks are owned mainly by individuals, a few only are owned by the distributing companies. The individual owner of the truck acts as the farmers' agent rather than the dealers, and the bargain for hauling is made between the truck man and the farmer, and not between the truck owner and the dealer. The dealer by arrangement makes the deduction for hauling from the farmers' milk check and remits to the hauler. This saves the truck man the trouble of collecting a number of small accounts.

A fleet of over 100 trucks is needed to bring in the daily milk supply, the average load being about two and a half tons. The first begins unloading between nine and ten o'clock. This permits the distributors to start the pasteurizing and the bottling, which process is continued until all the milk is in. This means that the early milk is in the cooler ready for the next morning's delivery before the last trucks in are unloaded.

"Our average haulage cost per 100 pounds of milk is about 25 cents, a small amount being hauled for 15 cents, and some of the farthest away paying 35 cents. The bulk of the milk is brought to the hard road to meet the milk truck by the producer, and set on small stands built to the level of the truck bed. Sometimes several farmers will join in building the stand large enough to accommodate all interested. Frequently the milk will be gathered by the farmers along some side road, turn about, and brought to the hard road with horses or a small truck.

"It has been suggested many times that our association own its trucks and do the hauling for its members, but we have not felt it a wise thing to do, believing that we can get better service by having the trucks owned and operated by individuals and the individual directly responsible to the producer that engages him. We are also opposed to have the dealer haul the milk as it gives the dealer an advantage over the individual producer. We look upon our truckmen as common carriers, that are willing to turn over an honest penny by hauling for any farmer on their routes, and to any dealer's plant as they may be directed."

HONEY WEEK IN WISCONSIN COMING SOON

Honey has always been a food of royalty. Even in the days of Mother Goose "the queen was in the parlor eating bread and honey." The Wisconsin Beekeepers' Association, however, has decided not to reserve this delicious sweet exclusively for queens and, therefore November 19 to 25 is to be "Honey Week," a time in which to acquaint every Badger home with Wisconsin honey.

"Honey should not be kept in a cold place," warns H. F. Wilson, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. "Nearly all liquid honey when kept in a cold place, or at the approach of cold weather is inclined to granulate. Honey, when in a liquid condition a transparent amber, is changed when granulated may be liquified by placing the container in hot water and allowing it to stand four or five hours."

Popcorn balls and candies made with honey are great favorites and are easily made.

MISS ELDA WEHLING BECOMES BRIDE OF MR. EMIL KRAUSE

A PRETTY fall marriage ceremony was solemnized at half past one o'clock on Tuesday at St. Matthew's Lutheran church at Stoddard, Wis., when Elda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wehling, became the bride of Mr. Emil Krause, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Krause of Onalaska. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. M. Brackenbusch. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irma Wehling, as maid of honor, and Mr. Henry Krause, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Little Fern Stroeh was the flower girl. Mrs. Peter Peterson presided at the organ, and as the bride and bridegroom approached the altar, played an appropriate wedding march.

The bride was charming in a gown of white Canton crepe. Her veil was held in place by a bandeau of pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and winter asters. The maid of honor was gowned in peach colored crepe de chine, and carried white chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the bride's parents where a handsome reception was held, and an elaborate wedding supper served to two hundred guests. The dining room was artistically decorated, a coloring of pink and white being carried out, chrysanthemums and smilax effectiveley used on the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Krause will be at home to their friends at Onalaska where the bridegroom is a successful farmer. A large number of La Crosse people attended the marriage ceremony and reception.

"CIRCUS DAYS"

Jackie Coogan is at the Majestic Theater at the head of a very admirable cast of principals. "Circus Days" is one of the biggest pictures ever screened at a local theater, yet so intimate and direct is the story that the proportions of the picture are not oppressive. As the peanut and lemonade merchant, little Jackie has a picturesque role, new to admirers of his versatile genius. As a "double" for the tiniest of equestriennes in the world, and dressed in her fluffy skirts Jackie is a "scream," and finally as the hero of the sawdust circle, the little actor is adorable.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c

NO CLASS HATRED PERMITTED UNDER OUR CONSTITUTION

Rev. Dr. Robert B. Condon One of Big Speakers at Milwaukee Armistice Day

ELOQUENT AND FORCEFUL TALK BY LA CROSSE PASTOR

Meeting Held Under Auspices of the American Legion

Declaring that the spirit of intolerance is not destined to thrive in America and deploring any movement which aims to arraign class against class or race against race in violation of the constitution, Rev. Dr. Robert B. Condon, pastor of St. Mary's church, delivered an eloquent and forceful address at a big Armistice day meeting in the Milwaukee auditorium Sunday night, held under the auspices of the American Legion. He upheld the loyalty of the Catholic church to America and paid a fine tribute to the men of every class and race who fought side by side in the late war and in other wars to defend the stars and stripes. Rev. Dr. Condon's speech follows:

"We celebrate today the peace achieved by the soldiers of America in the greatest of wars. They vindicated, these soldiers, our rights upon the sea. They revealed to the world the power of the United States. Their valor and sacrifice shall be an inspiration, forever, in our history and in the history of mankind.

"The ideals, however, which were eloquently proclaimed when we entered the war and which we hoped would be the common heritage of humanity ever after it have not been realized. Unspeakable is our regret and bitter is our disillusion as we gaze into the fiery elements of Europe and think how very soon those elements may flame into war.

"But even beyond our victory and the attainment of our primary object in taking up arms, the price we paid, though beyond computation, was not in vain.

War is Not in Vain

"Not in vain were the tears of the bereft, the wounds of the surviving soldiers and the blood of the slain. Not in vain were Chateau Thierry and the Argonne. The very sacrifice of those who went to that war and who came not back have made the ideals which we invoked dearer to the soldiers who returned and to every American worthy of the name. The very contrast of the European world of fear and discord to the peace and security of America has made those ideals more conspicuous. It has made them more conspicuous, too, as ideals which can be realized. For those ideals are not the visions of a dream. They are not the newly broached theories of a philosopher. They are the ideals, proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence, embodied in the constitution of the United States, and realized vitally, gloriously, and forever, we trust, in our beloved republic.

"The American Legion is dedicated to those ideals. It is dedicated to the perpetuation of the American republic and of its glorious constitution. Not merely in a spirit of comradeship, to cherish the friendship of the living soldiers, and the memory of the illustrious dead, is the reason of its existence and its lofty purpose, but to safeguard those high ideals, the principles of American freedom, for which the living fought and suffered and the dead gave their lives.

"Well may the American Legion dedicate itself to this purpose. Well may it carry into peace the spirit which it carried into war. The principles of constitutional freedom were wrought into reality and our government was established at a great price, indeed. But every page of history tells us that to preserve freedom is a task, almost as arduous as to win it. And to every man of every generation comes the call of service to his country.

Religious Freedom

"Among the principles of constitutional freedom which the legion and every true American is resolved to maintain, is that on which I am to speak briefly this evening. It is the principle that 'congress shall make no laws respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.'

"That clause was incorporated with the first amendment to the constitution, mainly through the efforts of James Madison. The colonial history of our country, though glorious in many respects, was marked by a spirit of religious intolerance and persecution which was incompatible with natural right and with the common weal, and which, the fathers resolved, should have no place in the new republic. Over temporal affairs the new government would have sway. But thus far it would go and no farther. Many were the religious beliefs and many were the forms of worship. To show a preference for any of them would have been a signal for discord and a challenge to destiny. Into the spiritual order, therefore, the government would not enter. Religion it would not establish. Between God and the soul it would not intervene. Every man was left free to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience.

"And who will question the wisdom of that provision? Who will say it should have been otherwise? Who will maintain that the principle of religious freedom has not fulfilled the hopes and intentions of the great men who wrote it into the constitution?

Work Side by Side

"Throughout our history, in all the works and ways of peace, in public office and in private station, Catholic, Protestant and Jew, men of every form of belief, have wrought side by side, exercising the prerogatives of citizenship, upholding our traditions of civil liberty, developing our material resources and advancing ever our national power and glory. They have stood side by side, too, in every great crisis of that history and in every ordeal of battle.

"In the dark days of the revolutionary war, they marched shoulder to shoulder, Catholic, Protestant and Jew, from Bunker Hill to Yorktown. In the war of 1812, they shot as Jackson gave the word at New Orleans, and with McDonough on Lake Champlain and with Perry on Lake Erie, they swept the waters with fire, and humbled the pride of the 'Mistress of the Seas.'

"In the days of the civil war, when the spirit of secession walked along the battlements of the republic, they stood shoulder to shoulder, Catholic, Protestant and Jew, and they fought and fell, and their blood flowed in the same stream, and they sleep side by side beneath the tall grasses of the valleys and in the shadows of the eternal hills, from Andersonville to Appomattox, and from Lookout to the sea.

"Who dares to mock their sacrifice? Who dares to mar the land which they redeemed by invoking above their graves the evil spirits of domestic discord and of sectarian hate?

No Excuse For Radicals

"And let not ignorance of their country's history be pleaded for those who would erase from the constitution the clause guaranteeing religious freedom, who would proscribe the Catholic, the Jew and the negro, and who would enkindle in our land the lurid flames of racial and religious conflict. They know at least what their eyes have seen in our day and generation.

"They know, at least, that Catholic, Protestant and Jew, and white and black, sleep side by side, forever, on the fields of France, beneath the starry banner which they bore as proudly and as victoriously, thank God, as the men of '76 and '61. And they know, at least, that every man, be he white or black, be he Catholic, Protestant or Jew, who is willing to follow our flag of stars and stripes around the world for the principle which it represents, is worthy to live in peace beneath its folds.

"Dr. Evans has shown how infinitely remote such men are from the rank and file of our non-Catholic countrymen. Rabbi Hirschberg has nobly illustrated the devotion to our county of our Jewish fellow citizens. As for me, while aware that a man in the ranks of proscription is almost beyond the reach of argument, yet, even to him as to all my countrymen, would I cry that between my creed and constitution of my country there is not even the shadow of contradiction.

"The Catholic church I salute from the depths of my soul as the oracle of God in the spiritual sphere and as the herald of eternity. In the sphere of temporal affairs, my country is supreme and my country is of God. God wills that I develop the powers, that I actualize the rights that He has conferred upon me. Of myself, or as a member of the family, I can do neither the one nor the other. To do the one and the other, I must associate with my fellow-men, and that the association may be effectual, there is need of the principle, and of the living realization, of authority.

"Pope Leo XIII writes: 'God has divided the government of the human race between two principalities—the Ecclesiastical and the Civil. The one has been set over the Divine, the other over human beings. Each is supreme in its own sphere; each has fixed limits within which it moves. Each is circumscribed to its own orbit within which it lives and works in its own native right.'

Enjoins Reverence

"The Catholic church enjoins reverence, for the civil authority which, she teaches, is derived from God. She enjoins obedience to the civil laws. A Catholic who is disloyal, who is not a good citizen, offends against church as well as against country and he offends against church because he offends against country. But apart from the teaching and precepts of the church, may I not find inspiration for my loyalty to the constitution in the influence which the church wielded in the development of constitutional liberty in the centuries anterior to our government?

"At the very dawn of the Christian era, and in the glory of Roman imperialism, the Christian martyr witnesses unto death for his religion. But he witnesses, also, against the interference of the state in the spiritual realm.

"At that time, too, two men out of three, were in slavery. 'It is very possible' says Monnsen, 'that compared with the suffering of the Roman slave, all negro suffering is but a drop.' That slavery was broken by the Catholic church. 'In the transition from slavery to surfdom,' says Lecky, 'and in the transition from surfdom to liberty, she was the most zealous, the most unwearied and the most efficient agent.'

"Out of the wreckage of the Roman Empire and of the confusion of the barbarian invasion, there gradually emerged the great institution of representative government. Then was reversed the Roman principle that the individual derived all his rights from the government, and had no rights against her. Then was it realized that the individual had rights not derived from the government which the government not only could not take away, but which it is her mission, and the very purpose of her being, to protect. Then first was heard the great cry, 'Taxation without representation is tyranny.' The teaching of the church on human right and dignity found expression in the political order, and the councils of the church prepared the way for the representative assemblies of the people.

Common Law Moulded

"The common law of England to which, more than to our form of government, our liberty is due, was moulded during ten centuries, by the bishops and priests of the church.

"When King John encroached upon the ancient liberties of England, he was confronted by the great cardinal, Stephen Langton, who was the inspiration and the soul of an ever-memorable struggle for freedom, and who has been called, not undeservedly, the author of Magna Charta.

"When James 1st sought to rule England as an absolute sovereign, Chief Justice Coke quoted against him the words of Bracton, a cleric and lawyer of the thirteenth century. The king should not be under man but under God and the law.'

"When the same James 1st proclaimed the doctrine of the divine right of kings, he was refuted by the great Jesuit, Francis Suarez, who told him that political power comes immediately indeed, from God but mediately from the people.

"But, ladies and gentlemen, I fear I have exceeded the time allotted me. What I have said, however, shows the attitude of the Catholic towards our constitutional freedom, and refutes those who dare impugn his loyalty. That attitude is stated to promote understanding and good will between all our citizens and not from any apprehension of danger to religious freedom.

No Intolerance Here

"For the spirit of intolerance is not destined to thrive in America. It is against all our principles and traditions and interests, and before the aroused indignation of the American people, it will shrink and wither away.

"America, please God, will not forfeit her proud distinction of never writing a statute of intolerance, and of never drawing the sword of religious persecution. And may we, and those who come after us, join hands and strive, under God, and as our country-men before us, to the end, that America, our beloved country, may go on prospering and to prosper, her ideals, as resplendent as ever, and her deals making their way from generation to generation among all the children of men. So the work of Washington, of Webster and of Lincoln, and of the generations who rallied around them, shall not cease, forever, and the stars upon our flag shall endure with the stars of Heaven."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE PAYS NATION'S TRIBUTE AT TOMB OF THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER

WASHINGTON, D. C.— President Coolidge laid a wreath Sunday on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington as the Armistice day tribute of the American people to the memory of "those who did not see the end, but died that the end might come."

The tribute was carried out by the chief executive in strict accord with the custom established a year ago by President Harding.

Leaving the white house at ten o'clock, Mr. Coolidge arrived at Arlington before many of the thousands who gathered there in observance of the fifth anniversary. He was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, his military and naval aides and Secretary Weeks of the war department and Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the navy department.

At the Tomb

The party, met by an escort of cavalry, drove along the wide avenue from which stretch on either side, row on row, the world war dead. At the tomb of the unknown soldier stood an honor guard of marines.

The president, with Secretary Weeks to his right and Secretary Roosevelt to his left, the president bearing a massive circle of white chrysanthemums, walked to the tomb and laid the floral tribute upon the marble top. Mr. Coolidge stood with bowed head for a minute and then raised his hand in salute to the honored dead.

The president was turning to leave when Mrs. Coolidge stepped to the tomb and laid beside the wreath a white rosebud, the special tribute of American womanhood.

Services in Amphitheater

Several thousand persons attended services held at the memorial amphitheater in the afternoon and many more, gathered on the nearby slopes, heard the service of song, prayer and address through amplifiers mounted on the top of the structure.

Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal church made the principal address, an appeal to the American people to keep the faith at the time when the tendency is strong "to lapse back into ordinariness of aspiration, into complacency of soul when the glory of the conflict has passed."

STOCK MARKET CLOSE

The closing was heavy. Prices of active stocks broke sharply in the late dealings on heavy profit-taking and realizing sales induced by reports of new stock financing by the Consolidated Gas company, that stock dropping four points. Some specialties strengthened at the end, notably Pullman. Sales approximated one million shares.

Prince Not at Oels

OELS, Silesia.—By The Associated Press.—At 11 o'clock Monday morning Oels was patiently awaiting the arrival of Former Crown Prince Frederick William, but was still without advices to when he would join the former Crown Princess and their children.

(This would seem to throw doubt upon a Central News dispatch reporting the arrival of Frederick William at Oels, which was filed from Berlin not later than ten o'clock this morning.)

Oels seems curious rather than enthusiastic over Frederick William's home coming, and there is no sign of flurry about the castle, which is lightly staffed and wholly without guards or other signs of monarchial ceremony. The old castle itself is a charming renaissance structure of much greater beauty than most of the more modern castles, and with its picturesque surroundings will afford a striking change to the former crown prince after his years of exile in foggy, muddy Wieringen.

Arrival Reported Earlier

LONDON.—Former Crown Prince Frederick William has arrived at his estate at Oels, says the Berlin correspondent of the Central News. The prince passed through Wusterhausen, near the German capital, where he was welcomed by the burgomaster in a brief speech.

Couldn't Refuse—Stresemann

BERLIN.—Speaking at Halle Sunday Chancellor Stresemann said the return of the Crown Prince, whom he characterized as "not the worst of Germans," to his German home could not be refused. The decision in this case was purely a question of internal policy and one which the German people could not allow to be taken from their hands.

Referring to the Munich revolt, the chancellor said Germany would have had to suffer a long time for the damage that would have resulted had Hitler become arbiter of Germany's fate. The chancellor remarked that the behavior of General Ludendorff in the affair was very regrettable.

urally did not wish to anticipate any dissensions or seem to be threatening a course of action predicated on a division of the allies so the answer to that point was reserved for future consideration.

It now becomes pertinent for the government of Great Britain to ask again whether the United States would join with Belgium, Italy and Great Britain in an informal inquiry into German capacity to pay.

Since the original purpose of the British invitation was to get such an inquiry started as would result in placing before the world the facts about reparations and the best methods of getting an international loan floated to help Germany recuperate, the same object could be served by a commission of experts from Belgium, America, Britain and Italy. Possibly when the commission reported, France might then find in the recommendations a suitable basis for a settlement. As it is now the French are in the position of blocking an inquiry into the facts and there is nothing in the Versailles treaty to prevent the other allies from making estimates whenever they please.

If the purpose of the allied move was to crystallize world opinion so as to persuade the French people that a reduction of the German debt is essential, the French have recognized that purpose and have felt justified in endeavoring to frustrate the parley. But the influence upon world opinion can still be exerted by an inter-allied inquiry without France.

U. S. Wants Unanimous Action

President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have indicated that they believe unanimous action was essential to final settlements. Nations can not be compelled to give up treaty rights or make any other concessions without their consent. Already there is political backfire here against the Coolidge administration for venturing into the reparation problem at all. Coolidge administration for venturing into the reparation problem at all. The action of France affords the Washington administration a graceful way out of what might have developed into a serious political quarrel on the eve of Mr. Coolidge's own campaign for the presidential nomination. America has been for three years.

France Blocks Way

Europe has pleading for American help. The U. S. has offered it but France has blocked the way largely because she did not believe the U. S. would give any substantial aid, but merely lend moral influence to the British position. And the distrust of Britain's policy by the French is by no means denied either in London or Paris. The failure of the United States to ratify the Versailles treaty or to approve the three power pact for the defense of the French against Germany together with the insistence of Washington that the allied debt to the United States must not be mixed up with the German debt to France has made the poincare government feel it can not expect much from American and that a policy of isolation and direct dealing with Germany is best after all for France.

ARMISTICE DAY MARKED BY FINE PROGRAMS

ren G. Harding. This is the first Armistice Day that has come since his death. May we remember his words of faith. His love of country. His great human brotherliness. God had brought him to the helm of our nation for such a time as this.

Open Way to Freedom

"The men of the American Legion have opened the highway to freedom. The men who served under the Stars and Stripes in the world war have paved the roadway, and stained it with their blood, that again America might press on to the end. Freedom's torch is high.

"These brave men of America have torn down the barricade of doubt, fear, and thoughtlessness. They have charged America with the fire of a new zeal. They have given us a new enthusiasm to go on, and on to attain unto real freedom. In the price that they paid, and in the method of their victory, these men have served notice on all men. That he who tries to overreach his authority. That that nation that goes beyond the bounds of honor and decency shall be punished. They have said with their stainless patriotism, and their supreme sacrifices, with their proferred bodies on the altar of their country's service, that freedom shall be the birthright of all men everywhere.

"Freedom's cause is today threatened by forces of enormous strength. New York, Chicago, Milwaukee and other large cities of our country have schools in which thousands of our children are being taught disrespect to the flag, are being taught to tear down the home, and the church, and to destroy all influences that make our present society one of peace. According to a report given at the recent citizenship conference New York alone has 142 such schools that are a menace to freedom. Politics are always endangering our progress towards freedom. Hot and fierce are the political battles for power in our country. Men leave the pursuits of peace; forget their solemn pledges. Even refuse to consider the price paid for liberty in terms of human lives; and spend their time in futile argument and useless debate over the body politic, while the forces that would destroy our republic mobilize for action. I challenge you in the name of the men who died in Belleau Woods, in Chateau Thierry, who died at sea, who died in cantonments stricken down by that dread disease, influenza, who offered themselves as willing sacrifice to death, carry on! I challenge you in the name of the American soldiers of the world war, carry on! I challenge you for the sake of passing on to your children a land of the free, carry on! Fight race prejudice; fight every agency and every organization that seeks to divide our nations into industrial castes, creedal castes, political castes, and blocs for the sake of accomplishing their own ends. Carry on for freedom's sake! Freedom's torch is high.

"Freedom's challenge again rings out on this Armistice Day of 1923. Hear it, ye men and women of La Crosse. Believe me when I say that the blood of freedom's martyrs is ever the seed that fructifies and grows in the hearts of all men wherever it is planted. Let's fight, suffer, and die to bring America nearer to freedom. Turn to the author of freedom, our God. He has placed freedom's torch on high. He bids all men and nations strive to reach its high citadel. Let us this morning accept the challenge of the angels of God who heralded the advent of His Peerless Son, Jesus, when they sang 'Peace on earth good-will to men.'"

WASHED OUT BOY'S MOUTH; ASSAULT LAID TO TEACHERS

SPARTA, Wis.—From a case which has come up in the justice court in Sparta the past week, it would seem that there is a fight on which started in the school district No. 6 Township of Tomah, between the parents and teacher of little five-year-old Cyril Gerke, the father, Albert Gerke, arrested the teacher, Miss Genevieve Gabower, on the charge of assault. She is said to have pleaded not guilty before Justice Lamson.

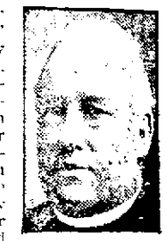

Not much is being said about the case, but from unofficial sources, it seems that the case arose over punishment meted out to the Gerke boy by the teacher. The story is that the boy was heard to swear, and that the teacher washed the boy's mouth out with soap and water. The parents evidently objected to this form of punishment, and made quite a stir in the district, but finally the board adjusted the matter satisfactorily, and things went on the same as before, until the boy repeated the offense, and again punished. Then trouble started.

The affair finally reached justice court in this city, but the case was adjourned to permit the teacher to engage an attorney. The school is known as the Council Creek school.

YOU TAKE COLD EASIEST WHEN YOU ARE TIRED

Medical experts agree that colds can be passed from one person to another but they say that in order to "catch cold" your vitality must be lowered. you must be overtired, or weakened and run down and your power of resistance below normal. You can keep free from colds by keeping your strength up and no better tonic food medicine for this purpose than Father John's Medicine is known. It will enable you to throw off a cold and rebuild your health and strength because it is made of pure food elements which strengthen and build up new resisting power. Father John's Medicine has had over sixty-eight years of success for colds, coughs and body building.

UTERITZ IS LOST TO WOLVERINES BY BROKEN LEG

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Coach Yost is faced with the impossible job of finding a man as good as Quarterback Uteritz to take the brainy Wolverine's place in the game with Wisconsin Saturday. Uteritz sustained a broken bone in his leg near the ankle, in the Marine game Saturday, and will be out all season. Rockwell, probably will be called upon to play the position, but his lack of experience of the varsity will be a handicap.

Michigan's other cripples, Vandervoort, tackle, and Curran, end, are expected to be in good shape for the tilt next Saturday, as neither played against the Marines. Muirhead, tackle, had several stitches taken over his eye. All the regulars except Uteritz will play against the Badgers, but it will necessitate a different kind of a fight with a new quarterback mixing the plays.

THE WHY OF THE "Y"

They say in the east that this is a Yale year, and that the Blue of the Elis will snap triumphantly in the breeze when the last point of the season is kicked. Besides many of his old dependables including Captain Bill Mallory, called the best defensive fullback in football, Coach Tad Jones has a number of other good bets at his beck and call. Stevens is playing a smashing game in the back field. Hulman is shaping up splendidly at end, while Miller and Diller bid fair to be ranking tackles judged by their work in the earlier games.

WAUKESHA ELEVEN TO PLAY HERE IS UNDEFEATED YET

Marquette Academy and Kenosha are Two Important Victories on List

THAT football fans of the city will be treated to a real game on Thanksgiving Day between the high school and Waukesha is evidenced by the past record of the southerners. Waukesha has played five games to date and has not lost one of them. In the opening game of the season they defeated the strong Marquette Academy eleven 10 to 0. They then trimmed Kenosha 13 to 10, Watertown 22 to 0, Wauwatosa, 25 to 6, Wauwatosa Aggies 6 to 0. This gives them a total of 105 points to their opponents 16, in comparison to the local record of 214 to their opponents 0.

La Crosse has not yet completed [illegible] having to deal with Edgerton High on the 17th of this month. If La Crosse beats Edgerton High and then Waukesha she will have a claim to the state title, being refused games with all the other undefeated teams and being the only one left.

PUNCH BOARDS ARE BARRED BY WINONA POLICE

WINONA, Minn.—Two men from out of the city who had made extensive preparations for sale of "punch boards," classified by the authorities as a gambling device, on Winona streets, were persuaded by police to abandon their enterprise and to leave the city, Chief H. C. Richan said today.

The men had employed a number of girls to sell toilet articles on the street by use of the punch boards, and had also planned to install the boards in business establishments, police said.

COACH RYAN TURNS ATTENTION TOWARD MICHIGAN BATTLE AT CAMP RANDALL NEXT SATURDAY

MADISON Wis.—Coach Jack Ryan of the Wisconsin Badgers Saturday turned his attention to the task of preparing for the encounter with Michigan here next Saturday, the final tilt on the local gridiron this season. The Badger aggregation returned yesterday from Urbana where it was pushed out of the 1,000 per cent column Saturday by Illinois to the tune of 10 to 0.

The first quarter of the Illinois fray marked the defeat of the Badger team. During the remaining three quarters of the game, the Ryan men kept the Illini well within bounds. The Badger playing Saturday was the best of the season, coaches report, Grange, flashy back, won the game for Illinois through his end running, skirting the right end of the line early in the first quarter for the only touchdown of the game.

Williams filled Schneider's place at quarterback part of the game in excellent shape but Schneider returned to the post about the middle of the second quarter. Bentson showed up well at Gerber's post at tackle, considering that he took over the place on less than forty eight hours notice. Taft was the Badgers' mainstay in that time and again he punted the pigskin out of Wisconsin territory, often fifty and sixty yards. He also brought the stands to their feet when he broke through for twenty-five yards immediately after the game started, giving Capt. Marty Below his first chance to place kick.

Early reports indicate that the Badger team came through the Illinois game in fairly good condition. By next Saturday, Schneider is expected to be in better trim for the Michigan game and Miller probably will be fully recovered from a sick spell. Coach Ryan will deal first of all with the problem of developing the shifted line. He also will pay considerable attention to defensive forward pass work, since the aerial route is Michigan's favorite procedure.

The team was welcomed back to Madison yesterday morning by a large crowd of followers.

ILLINOIS PLACES EMBARGO ON ALL IMPORTED CATTLE

A. O. Collentine dairy extension specialist for the Wisconsin College of Agriculture reports extreme caution being exercised by cattle buyers from Illinois which state placed an embargo effective September 1 against dairy and breeding cattle coming into the state from all states. Exceptions to the rule made by Illinois officials, according to Collentine, are: (1) stock from state and federal accredited herds; (2) animals subjected to tests applied by veterinarians employed by federal or state governments, or other veterinarians approved in Wisconsin; and (3) animals sold subject to a 60-day retest as applied by approved Illinois veterinarians. Recent Illinois buyers of purebred cattle have purchased at recent southern Wisconsin sales only stock which came from Federal Accredited herds.

FOUR STRAIGHT VICTORIES GIVES ILLINOIS SHADE IN RACE FOR CONFERENCE TITLE

CHICAGO, Ill.—Illinois, with four straight wins to her credit, today was a shade ahead of her two undefeated opponents in the race for western conference football honors.

The Illini, by successive wins over Iowa, Northwestern, Chicago and finally Wisconsin, has only Ohio to overcome on November 24, to have a clean slate for the season and a place at the head of the conference list. Michigan and Minnesota, the other two undefeated Big Ten teams, each have run against two other conference elevens and still have two remaining games.

By its ten to nothing victory over Wisconsin on Saturday, Illinois eliminated the previously undefeated Badgers from the group of championship contenders, thereby strengthening her own position. Michigan won from the United States Marines, in a non-conference mission, while Minnesota rested previous to its game with Iowa on the coming Saturday. In contests not figuring prominently in the title race, Chicago defeated Indiana, 27 to 0, and Ohio State downed Purdue, 32 to 0.

While Illinois takes on the non-conference Missouri Aggies this coming Saturday, Michigan will tackle the defeated but still powerful Wisconsin team at Madison, and Iowa and Minnesota will fight it out at Minneapolis in a contest that would affect the season's outcome should Minnesota fall to the Hawkeyes.

Following is the standing of the western conference teams:

FOOTBALL FACTS

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTION

With the ball in possession of Team A, the situation is such that the player calling signals decided on a punt as the best possible play. The ball was kicked over the line of scrimmage, but a stiff wind that was blowing across the field, caused the ball to perform some freakish stunts in the air, resulting in a dispute as to the proper decision on the play. The wind blew the ball back and the kicker recovered it behind his own line of scrimmage. It did not touch the ground or an opponent while beyond the line or scrimmage prior to being blown back.

ANSWER

The continuity of the downs is considered as broken when ball has been kicked and the opponents given a fair and equal chance of gaining possession of it. A kick shall be so regarded if the ball shall have crossed the line of scrimmage or it shall have been touched by an opponent. In the case cited while the ball at one time did cross the line of scrimmage, the high wind which blew it back failed to give the opposition a fair chance at the ball. Since the ball finally came to the ground back of the line of scrimmage it would have been proper for the referee to have ruled that the ball did not cross the line of scrimmage and instead of breaking the continuity of the downs should merely count as a down.

MINNESOTA DAILY RILED AT GERBER DISBARMENT RULE

Gopher Paper Ridicules Action of Council in Declaring Tackle Out of Game

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—The Minnesota Daily, student newspaper at the University of Minnesota, in an article on Friday criticized the Big Ten ruling, which, it said, forbids an athlete from "using his knowledge of athletics for financial gain" in discussing the barring of E. C. Gerber, star Wisconsin tackle.

Gerber, it was charged, had taught swimming at the La Crosse, Wis. Y. M. C. A. and it was on these grounds that he was declared ineligible.

"For such a perversion of purpose," the Daily declares, "a man, of course, should not only be barred from playing football. Nay—he deserves far worse punishment. He deserves dismissal from school, the scorn of his friends, the abuse of his enemy, yes, he should even be quartered and hung, burned in oil, or shot by a firing squad.

"Perhaps Abramson will be disqualified next because he won a $1 prize when he was in the sixth grade by finishing first in the 100 yard dash. Possibly Martineau, while in the primary school, threw a baseball farther than his competitors and won a 50 cent prize. If so, he may be in danger of being declared ineligible.

"The moral of all this—hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water. If you must earn your way through school do not try to do it honestly and fairly as Gerber did. No, simplify matters by getting some wealthy alumnus to pay your way. Athletics must be purged."

This work is ready to be undertaken near Alma, Buffalo City and Fountain City after ice forms on the river.

DAKOTA WESLEYAN IS DEFEATED ON SATURDAY

MITCHELL, S. D.—Playing against the odds of weight and experience, Dakota Wesleyan university, aspirants for the South Dakota college conference championship, went to defeat before the rushing onslaught of the University of South Dakota Saturday afternoon, 21 to 2. In the first half, the locals forced the visitors to the air to make a single touchdown and a place kick. Wesleyan weakened in the second half. Funston, student from Mitchell, starred for the visitors.

"BROKEN WING"

"The Broken Wing," which opened last night at the Rivoli Theater gets away to a spectacular beginning when Philip Marvin, rich New Yorker, undertakes a record air flight. Near the Mexican border, his plane goes wrong his mechanician falls overboard and his machine drops into the home of Inez Villera, piquant Spanish maid who has given the powers-above thirty days to send her an American husband to avert her marriage to Captain Santos, chief of an outlaw band. She nurses him back to health and wastes no time in convincing him that he is her King of Hearts. There follow interesting complications but everything works out in the end by the introduction of some stunt flying and a thrilling battle between bandits and Federals.

Kenneth Harlan very nearly approaches perfection as a typical American hero. Miriam Cooper is convincing and pretty as the vivacious Inez.

"THREE WISE FOOLS"—STRAND

King Vidor is one of those progressive young directors who has established a new precedent. In writing the screen version of "Three Wise Fools" at the Strand theatre today, the matter came up of planning an escape from prison. This part, of course, was not handled in the stage production. Vidor went back into criminal history and dug up one of the most sensational escapes on record. The escape, a fairly recent one, from the California State Prison, Folsom, occurred in May 1920. Four prisoners rushed a locomotive in the prison yard, opened the throttle and crashed their way out of the grounds into open country. Vidor secured all the newspaper clippings of this sensational escape and has followed them closely in making the picture.

"COMMON LAW"—CASINO

In "The Common Law," the screen version of the novel by R. W. Chambers, which opens a 3 day's engagement at the Casino Theater on today an old problem is presented in a new way— the problem which often occurs in the life of wealthy young men of whether to choose love or fortune. Beautiful Corinne Griffith in the role of Valerie West, an artist's model, and Conway Tearle, as her employer, are deeply in love with each other but Conway's screen parents strenuously object to the marriage and are planning to force their son to marry a cold-blooded society girl whom he does not love and in this way enable him to climb the social ladder. The father threatens to cut his son off without a cent if the latter persists in carrying out his plans to marry his model. In the usual "cut and dried" type of fiction or drama the hero would unhesitatingly renounce all claims to the paternal fortune and choose the course of true love. But it is just here that "The Common Law" displays originality and is more true to life than its predecessors of similar nature.

A species of big water-lily only gives forth perfume during the fertilization period.

Conway Tearle and Elliott Dexter ~

Doris May, Harry Myers, Bryant Washburn, Miss Dupont, Phyllis Haver, Wally Van and Hobart Bosworth~

Is Marriage Essential?

Or is an agreement to live together as Husband and Wife sufficient? This story answers the question!

The sensational story of a beautiful artists' model who, rather than face the barrier of social position that surrounded the man she loved, offered herself in "common-law" marriage.

An elaborate picturization of the startling novel that solves the marriage problem!

An extraordinary cast of stars and featured supporting players in an ultra-modern story of life and love amid the Bohemian atmosphere of New York's artist colony and upper social set.

OH, LADIES! LADIES! Remember what a gorgeous creature CORINNE GRIFFITH is? Well, wait till you see how ravishing she looks and what wonderful gowns she wears in this.

AND SUCH A CAST!—Conway Tearle, Elliott Dexter, Hobart Bosworth, Bryant Washburn, Doris May, Miss du Pont.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—Secretary Mellon's recommendation for a downward revision of federal income taxes had a beneficial effect on stock prices which displayed a strong tone at Monday's opening. United States Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker and other pivotal shares opened fractionally higher and there was a good demand for the rails. Some of the oils were heavy in reflection of the gasoline price cutting war in the west.

The market broadened and developed increased strength as trading progressed. Kresge was pushed up five points and Congoleum three to new high levels for the year; Brooklyn Union Gas and Woolworth each advanced 2½ and United States Steel, Baldwin, Gulf States Steel, Maxwell Motors "A," Stromberg Carburetor, Jones Brothers' Tea, American Can and Studebaker were among the many stocks to gain a point or more. Foreign exchanges opened weak, demand sterling dropping more than three cents to another new low.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—With foreign exchange scoring new low records for the year, wheat underwent a fresh downturn in price Monday during the early dealings. Assertions that wheat market conditions were the most bearish ever known tended also to weaken values. It was contended, however, that wheat prices were already so low that bread has become the cheapest of foods the world over. Initial quotations, which ranged from ⅛ to ⅝c down, with December $1.02⅝ to $1.02¾ and May $1.07⅝ to $1.08, were followed by a moderate further setback.

Subsequently influenced by corn strength, the wheat market rallied, with eastern houses good buyers and with shorts taking profits. The rally, though, failed to hold well. Wheat closed unsettled ⅜ to ⅝ to ⅝c net lower, December $1.02½ to $1.02⅝ to ¾ and May $1.07⅝ to ¾ to $1.07¾.

Unfavorable weather gave firmness to corn and oats. After opening at ⅛c decline to a like advance, December 75½ to 75⅝c, the corn market showed moderate gains all around.

Additional upturns took place later. Receipts here were enlarged but less than had been looked for. The close was unsettled ⅝ to ¾ to 1⅛c net higher, December 76⅜ to 76½c.

Oats started ⅛c off to ⅛c up. December 41¾c, sagged a little and then made a slight general upturn.

Provisions were easy in line with the hog market.

BOYS ADMIT TAKING TWENTY-THREE CARS DURING PAST MONTH

Were Responsible for Theft of Five Automobiles in Single Night

Theft of twenty-three automobiles, five in single night, was the admission made to Chief of Police John B. Webber by the two boys 12 and 13 years of age, picked up last Thursday when one of them was caught taking a key from a car parked in front of St. Mary's school.

The boys' names are being withheld pending their arraignment and disposition of the cases in county court.

When first arrested they admitted being implicated in the theft of but two cars, but Saturday night the older of the two told Chief Webber that they had taken twenty-three cars at various times during the past month. He said they took all five of the cars reported to police as stolen in one night, among them being Peter Stephan's, to which considerable damage was done.

It was believed that the older of the boys did the driving, the other merely accompanying him.

The boys also admitted entering the used car store room of the Ford garage and taking keys from each car. They pumped grease over a portion of the floor in the building.

BANGOR STATION GUTTED BY FIRE OF UNKNOWN CAUSE

The Bangor station of the Milwaukee railroad was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. The flames originated in the baggage room in some manner not ascertained, shortly after 1 o'clock in the morning. The fire was not discovered until a half an hour later, and by that time the flames were through the roof and the whole structure was well afire. The village fire department was able to save most of the walls, but the interior is entirely gone, and the outer walls will probably have to be torn down.

No one was in the building at the time of the fire.

Temporary quarters for the station have been set up in the freight office, adjoining.

LA CROSSE RADIO LISTENERS HEAR WOODROW WILSON

At 7:28 p. m. Saturday night the voice of Woodrow Wilson was heard by several La Crosse radio listeners tuned to WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., which station relayed the speech from the Washington, D. C., station. The talk lasted about ten minutes with frequent pauses. The ex-president's voice did not seem to have much strength or carry well probably due in some measure to distortion by relaying. With true amateur spirit the La Crosse transmitting stations, 9ZY and 9AZN stood by and kept silent during this interval as did all other broadcasting stations so that all should have a chance to hear the ex-president's voice.

AUTOS COLLIDE ON TWELFTH AND CASS SATURDAY NIGHT

Automobiles driven by H. Nelson, Elmer's Coulee, and Earl Paisley, 109 Copeland avenue, collided at Twelfth and Cass streets, about 10 o'clock Saturday night. No one was hurt, but the machines were smashed beyond driving away under their own power.

In the police report, Nelson was reported to have been proceeding on Cass street, Paisley going south on West avenue, smashing into him. Nelson told police that Paisley was approaching the intersection at a high rate of speed.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Three University of Wisconsin co-eds were held in Chicago Heights Monday pending an investigation into the automobile accident near that place Sunday night in which two persons were killed. No charges have been placed against the girls, who were returning to Madison from the Illinois-Wisconsin game, in order to make their Monday classes.

Those killed in the crash were John T. Murphy, 48, of Chicago Heights, and Miss Agnes R. Erb, 25. Two other occupants of the car were uninjured.

The co-eds, Miss Florence Killilea, Miss Katherine Kennedy and Miss Margaret Pergande, all of Milwaukee were in a car driven by Miss Killilea. According to the story of the girls, Murphy tried to pass them, the two cars hit a glancing blow and the machine driven by Murphy swerved over to the side of the road and crashed into a telephone pole. An inquest is to be held. Meanwhile the girls were held.

SHERIFFS TO AID IN CHECKING ON TRUCK LICENSES

Blaine Wants to Help Prevent Money Loss Under New License Fee

Action has been taken by Governor Blaine to prevent a loss of several thousands of dollars to the state.

In a letter directed to A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, and to the sheriffs of all counties, including Sheriff Lund of La Crosse county, he asks the co-operation of all county highway commissioners and police officers in requiring all trucks which have not been registered under the license law passed by the 1923 legislature to pay the new license fee.

"I am advised by the state department that there are approximately 25,000 trucks that are not registered under the new law, and that there is a possibility that thousands of dollars may be lost to the highway fund." Governor Blaine stated in his letter to Hirst. He explained that the four or five auto license inspectors, working under the secretary of state, are unable to cover the entire state, and that the state does not desire to employ more inspectors.

"I suggest that in each county those who are delinquent in registering or re-registering should be reported to the sheriff and district attorney, with a request for prosecution, and if they fail to prosecute then the matter should be called to the attention of the governor. But I have no doubt that the sheriffs and district attorneys are very willing and anxious to do their part," the governor stated.

Governor Blaine also pointed out that inasmuch as there were a number of new deputy sheriffs created by a bill passed by the new legislature, it should not be difficult to find "agencies to assist in this work, and I feel that there is no need of increasing inspectors in the state department."

There is less than two months in which to complete the work Governor Blaine stated in his letter to the sheriffs, urging quick action. The sheriffs are also urged to enlist the police officers in the work of checking up trucks not re-registered.

The motor vehicle license law, which taxes motor vehicles in proportion to weight, was recently upheld by a decision by the state supreme court, given in a memorandum. The majority of truck and motor bus owners were waiting for the high court decision to pay their fees. Many sent in checks, marked under protest, awaiting the decision of the court.

TREES FIX LAND PRICES

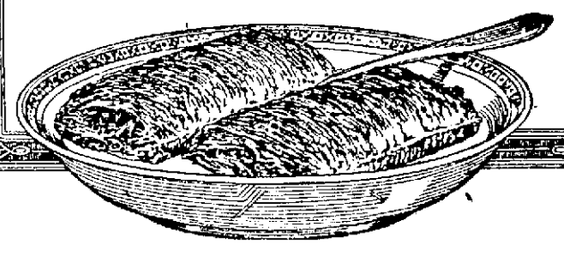

CORFU.—By The Associated Press.—Land here is not always sold by the acre. When land is sold, the number of trees are counted and the price fixed on the productive power of the trees. This island is rich in olive trees and vines. Wherever there is an olive tree, a price is set on its value of the land. The near east relief workers here recently wished to lease a plot of land for their school near the kaiser's villa. Before being able to accomplish it they had to see 65 persons, each one of whom owned a tree on the plot. The work of the near East relief not interfering with the growth of olives, made it easy to obtain the lease. Here a man's wealth is in trees.
